Converting to Open Access in 2023

We are committed to supporting open research and transforming the vast majority of journal research publishing to open access by 2025. In 2023 we will be flipping seven journals from a subscription model to Gold open access:

Canadian Journal of Law and Society

Journal of Wine Economics

Parasitology

Renewable Agriculture and Food Systems

Visual Neuroscience

Australian Journal of Environmental Education

Animal Welfare (converting on take-on)

Издательство

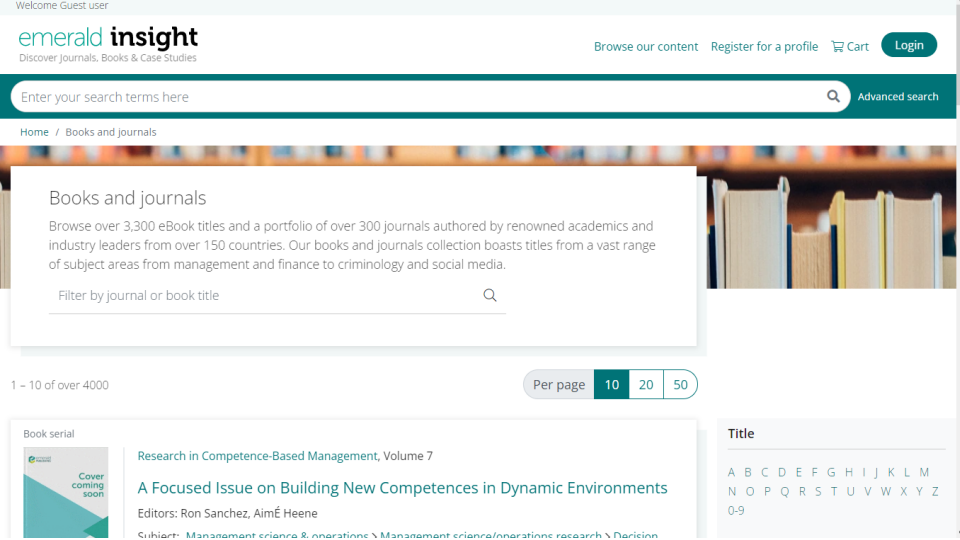

Emerald

Основано в 1967 году, поставив перед собой задачу отстаивать новые идеи, которые способствовали бы развитию научных исследований и практики в бизнесе и менеджменте. Сегодня Emerald продолжает развивать новое мышление в прикладных областях, в которых есть возможность реально изменить ситуацию, включая здравоохранение и социальную помощь, образование и инженерию

В портфолио Emerald почти 300 журналов, более 2500 книг, 1500 учебных кейсов и открытая исследовательская платформа. Цель издательства - публиковать только тщательно выверенные академические исследования, которые помогают людям получать теоретическую информацию и принимать практические решения в реальном мире

Помощь глобальным сообществам в принятии важных решений на основе авторитетных исследований. Real Impact (реальное воздействие) - это гораздо больше, чем учет цитирований. Речь идет о том, чтобы что-то изменить. Воздействие - это доказуемые результаты исследований в реальном мире

Поиск новых публикационных моделей

- Emerald запустил программу книг открытого доступа (open access books). Первая Open Access монография была опубликована в сентябре 2018 г.
- В рамках программы Emerald Publishing Services публикуется все большее количество платиновых журналов (Platinum open access journals) с открытым доступом. Расходы на публикацию оплачиваются третьей стороной (учреждением, ассоциацией, фондом и т.д.). Все статьи, опубликованные в таких журналах, автоматически публикуются в открытом доступе без каких-либо затрат для автора

В 2019 г. запущена платформа открытого доступа (open access platform) Emerald Open Research в партнерстве с F1000

Emerald Open Research

- Быстрая публикация
- Открытый процесс рецензирования
- Политика открытых данных
- Под руководством автора
- Традиционные и нетрадиционные типы статей (например, учебные кейсы, наборы данных (datasets)...))
- Позволяет оценивать исследование по существу, а не по месту публикации

The screenshot displays the Emerald Open Research website interface. At the top, there is a teal navigation bar with the site name and search icon. Below this, a large banner features the text "Easy, rapid and transparent publishing" and "Emerald Open Research is a new platform for fast author-led publication and open peer review", with buttons for "SUBMIT YOUR RESEARCH" and "BROWSE ARTICLES".

The main content area shows an article titled "The normalisation of Food Aid: What happened to feeding people well? [version 1; referees: 3 approved, 1 approved with reservations]". The authors listed are Martin Caraher and Robbie Davison. A sidebar on the right provides metrics: 233 views, 41 downloads, and an "Open Peer Review" section showing a reviewer status of three green checkmarks and one question mark, along with a table of reviewer reports.

The article abstract discusses the increase in food poverty in the UK and the challenges of the food aid supply chain. It also includes a list of keywords: "food poverty, food bank, food rights". At the bottom, there is a section for "Competing interests" and "Grant information", both stating that no competing interests or grants were involved. A footer contains copyright information and a citation guide.

Abstract

Data analysis is a risky endeavor, particularly among those unaware of its dangers. In the words of Cook and Campbell (1976; see also Cook, Campbell, and Shadish 2002), "Statistical Conclusions Validity" threatens all experiments that subject themselves to the dark arts of statistical magic. Although traditional statistics classes may advise
